The top priority for the Redondo Beach Chamber of Commerce has been the revitalization of our waterfront. After a nearly eight-hour council meeting Redondo Beach City Council voted 3-1 vote, with one recusal, to deny an appeal of the CenterCal Waterfront Environmental Impact Report (EIR) from activists challenging a $400M plan to revitalize the aging waterfront. By developing 523,939 square feet of waterfront real estate, resulting in 312,289 new square feet of development. The project adds 19 new buildings to the waterfront’s 36 acres.

The revitalization is necessary in ensuring the long term vitality of the city. This helps create many local jobs, a stronger tax base, and expands on Redondo Beach’s ability to compete as a top destination city in Southern California.

City Council’s 3-1 vote, upholds the project’s approval by the Harbor Commission but, making slight revisions to downsize two buildings and more closely monitor water quality. Local developer CenterCal Properties would cover an estimated $100 million to replace the deteriorating pier parking structure, critical for the public-private partnership and overall project safety.

Activist are trying to defeat this project through a lawsuit or ballot measure first. Otherwise it will likely to be appealed to the California Coastal Commission by opponents who contend it is too dense, will ruin views and privatizes public space. A review of the project refutes these claims, and in fact the project conforms with the density limitations of Measure G and would greatly improve public access.

Councilman Bill Brand announced on August 30 that he would recuse himself from making a decision on the project appeal because of his bias against the project.

The waterfront opposition is the latest in a long line of activism against progress in Redondo Beach. Nearly every project, from carwash redevelopments to new condominiums, in the city has faced fierce resistance from a vocal group of residence exemplifying the “Not In My Back Yard” mentality. The waterfront is too important to get derailed by self-interested groups.
Local Small Businesses Eligible for Federal Grant for Trade and Export Initiative

Trade and transportation have been a key part of the Redondo Beach Chamber of Commerce’s policy platform. Being so close to the nation’s largest seaport and trade gateway affords our local and regional businesses unique opportunities that many others don’t have. The chamber has a history of promoting export opportunities for our members, including the reauthorization of the Export-Import Bank, as well as export initiatives to increase foreign sales.

The Federal Government recently released a grant to the Governor’s Office of Business & Economic Development (GO-Biz) and the California Community College Chancellor’s Office (CCCC) to jointly administer $844,214 in grant funds to increase foreign trade opportunities within small businesses.

The funds will be used to assist small businesses to gain access to foreign markets, attend foreign market sales trips, assist in the design of foreign trade marketing, trade shows, training and more.

“Exporting is an important growth opportunity for our small businesses that are ready to expand their reach into new and increasingly borderless global markets. These STEP awards, in addition to SBA’s export loans and U.S. Export Assistance Centers, help small businesses across our nation have the tools, resources and relationships they need to take their businesses global,” said Administrator Maria Contreras-Sweet, head of the Small Business Administration and member of President Obama’s cabinet.

The chamber is happy to serve as a reference for qualified businesses. Visit the California STEP Program or SBA’s STEP program and the fiscal year 2016 awardees for more information and to learn how to apply and qualification guidelines.

Chamber Supports the States Emergency Stop to Federal Overtime Rule

The Redondo Beach Chamber of Commerce has been involved in coalitions opposed to the change in the federal overtime Rule. The current rule sets the threshold for employees exempt from overtime at $23,660 annually. In an effort to appeal the U.S. Department of Labor’s (DOL) new overtime rule, 21 states have filed an emergency injunction requesting the federal court to stop the new rule before the December 1, 2016 effective date.

The new federal overtime rule under the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) estimates that 4.2 million white collar workers in the executive, administrative and professional roles paid less than $913 per week will be guaranteed overtime pay for any hours worked in excess of their regularly scheduled shift.

California has the most workers effected by the rule which would nearly double the current federal salary threshold from $23,660 to $47,476 annually. That means anyone making a salary of less than $47,476 would now be eligible for overtime under the new rules. This would greatly increase the amount of Californian’s eligible for overtime, and could have a lot of unintended financial impacts on small businesses.

Until the court steps in stopping the new rule, it will be effective as scheduled and employers are being urged to prepare. Many organizations, including the California Chamber of Commerce are offering free webinars to businesses.

State of the City
Friday, February 24, 2017
Governor Jerry Brown signed legislation that creates a state-managed retirement savings program for private-sector workers who do not have one. In a statement, Brown claimed that the legislation provides long-term financial security to millions of Californians who currently do not have a plan.

The “California Secure Choice Retirement Savings Program” will be the largest public program in the country. The program will phase in over several years and could begin accepting its first contributions from workers at employers with 100 or more employees by 2018, officials said. Within a year, it would apply to all companies with five or more workers. Brown called Senate Bill 1234 “very important in today’s age of spend now, worry about it later.”

The Secure Choice program, supporters say, would take advantage of economies of scale to automatically put a share of workers’ wages into a retirement fund at low cost, unless they opt out. Contributions would start at 3 percent of a worker’s salary. While employers would be required to set up the plans to accept contributions from workers’ paychecks, they would not be required to contribute to the retirement funds.

California state officials still have to put the program together including the hiring of staff and selection a Secure Choice investment vehicle prior to when the bill takes effect Jan. 1. An option will be to initially piggyback on the federal MyRA program, a voluntary retirement account created by the Obama administration in 2014, and then solicit proposals for a state-run program.

The latest bill passed the Legislature largely along party lines. Most Republican lawmakers were opposed. Critics of SB 1234 argue that Secure Choice poses unfair state competition to the financial planning industry and also will feed expectations that the state will step in and cover in-

Waterfront Revitalization: A Decades-Long Work in Progress

By: Sean Guthrie

Once upon a time the Redondo Beach waterfront was a thriving center of activity that sadly fell on such hard times that by the middle of last century it had deteriorated to where there wasn’t much worth salvaging. Hence our current revitalization efforts truly began over 60 years ago. In just the past decade and a half, there have been countless redevelopment processes, including consensus building workshops, referendum/initiative petition drives, and citywide votes, all centered around how best to revitalize our waterfront. All told, our city and citizens have spent millions of dollars and thousands of hours trying to set an acceptable path towards actually improving our Harbor-Pier Area.

Finally, during the mid-term November 2010 elections, over 26,000 Redondo Beach voters turned out and voted to approve Measure G, which established new development standards for the Harbor-Pier Area. Subsequently, with this approval in hand an experienced developer was selected who held several community workshops to create a visionary project known simply as “The Waterfront.” Now to put things in perspective, the new voter-approved development standards are far more restrictive than those governing any of the nearby coastal commercial districts, including our own Riviera Village, not to mention those in Hermosa Beach and Manhattan Beach. Additionally, these more restrictive development standards require adding a substantial amount of new public open space which neither exists nor is required when redevelopment occurs in most other commercial districts.

This all means that when The Waterfront is complete, it will not only provide economic benefits, but will also offer a far more pedestrian and bike friendly environment than any district around, offering a multitude of ways to enjoy our spectacular coastline, whether it’s simply strolling along a beautiful new esplanade or dining alfresco. The time has come to move forward and actually revitalize our waterfront, and thanks to the standards put in place by Measure G, we can rest assured the end result will conform to what a majority of our citizens approved.

The Health Benefits of Thanksgiving Meal

Thanksgiving meal, one of America’s favorites, is also the healthiest in terms of ingredients. Cooking with these ingredients throughout the Fall and Winter months promotes a strong immune system, good circulation, improved cognition and more. Here are some health benefits of popular Thanksgiving ingredients:

• Turkey is a great source of all the B vitamins. Turkey has a relaxing effect due to tryptophan which helps release serotonin for beating the winter blues, and melatonin for promoting a restful sleep.

• Sage and rosemary stimulate concentration, memory and recall. Marjoram relieves insomnia, and reduces anxiety and stress. These herbs all have strong antibacterial and antiviral properties.

• Sweet potatoes and pumpkin have carotenoids which help strengthen eyesight, boost immunity, ward off cancer and protect against the effects of aging. Their natural sugars slowly release into the bloodstream, sustaining energy without the blood sugar spikes that cause fatigue and weight gain.

• Ginger, onion and garlic lower blood pressure, reduce inflammation, thin the blood, and support the immune system. Ginger aids digestion, protects against food poisoning and helps with nausea.

• Cranberries are rich in vitamin C, boost the immune system, fight inflammation and promote cardiac health. They help keep bacteria from sticking to surfaces preventing cavities and gum disease as well as supporting the urinary tract health.

• Cinnamon is a super spice with powerful antioxidant, anti-inflammatory, anti-diabetic and antimicrobial benefits. It too boosts the immune system and protects against heart disease and cancer.

How we enrich our meal is as important as what we eat. Sharing the bounty of Thanksgiving with loved ones further contributes to our health and enhances happiness. Cheers to a healthy and happy Thanksgiving!

Community Welcomes Tom Bakaly, New Beach Cities Health District CEO

It is my distinct pleasure to be joining Beach Cities Health District (BCHD) as the Chief Executive Officer. Thanks to 12 years of outstanding leadership and innovation from Susan Burden, who retired in October, I’m fortunate enough to be inheriting a high-performing organization with a sterling reputation in the community, a talented staff and volunteer network, and a clear purpose: to create a healthy beach community for the residents of Hermosa Beach, Manhattan Beach and Redondo Beach.

As the former City Manager of Hermosa Beach, I’ve had the opportunity to work closely with BCHD and the City of Redondo Beach throughout the years on a variety of health initiatives and programs, including the Blue Zones Project, which is having a profound impact on the health of residents in recent years – namely a 17 percent decrease in smoking, a 9 percent drop in significant daily stress and the top community well-being score in the nation for 2015.

But we’ve only just begun. BCHD’s publicly-elected Board of Directors recently announced our strategic health priorities for the next three years. Key areas of focus across each major lifespan include:

• Curbing above-average rates of drug and alcohol use by Beach Cities teens, especially among high school students. I encourage you to read more about our partnership to combat teen substance use with South Bay Families Connected in the new issue of our LiveWell Magazine.

• Helping adults achieve the recommended amount of daily physical activity by making it easier and safer to walk and bike throughout the community. Learn more about our safe “Streets for All” campaign, which was designed in partnership with the City of Redondo Beach and RBUSD, at bchd.org/streetsforall.

• Providing older adults with evidence-based programs – including Memory Club, MoveWell In-home Exercise and LiveWell, DieWell – to ensure they age gracefully and independently for as long as possible. Read more at bchd.org/health-services. These are just a few of the many community health initiatives ahead for BCHD. The entire list of health priorities is posted on bchd.org.

The health of the Beach Cities begins with our local partners, volunteers and leaders, who make our community such a great place to live, work, learn and play – and I’m honored to support each of you as CEO of Beach Cities Health District.

In health,

Tom Bakaly
Chief Executive Officer

The Kitchen Collection

Jackie Balint, CKD, has been designing in the kitchen and bath industry since 1981 and is the owner of The Kitchen Collection in Riviera Village. Jackie came to The Kitchen Collection in 1983 as an independent designer. In 1988 she and husband Barry became owners, turning it into a family business and are now joined by their daughter Debra.

Jackie and her daughter Debra offer years of experience in practical and personalized kitchen and baths. They work with clients and contractors to create timeless projects, utilizing quality products and providing personal attention from concept to completion. Jackie and Debra have worked on projects throughout the states and have had many of their projects published. The Kitchen Collection is a member of the National Kitchen & Bath Association.

A kitchen is so much more than just cabinets. Designing a great layout that maximizes function and storage is the cornerstone of a project. Next is choosing cabinet style, door style, wood type, and finish color. The decisions don’t stop there. The counter top material, color, and edge detail, the type of sink, appliances, faucets, hardware, ceiling lights, under cabinet lights, back splash, flooring, and the list goes on.

The designers at The Kitchen Collection are well aware of all these details and choices. We work with our clients from the early planning stages until the final detail is finished. We take the time to get to know you, your likes and dislikes, how you cook and entertain, and then help you create your perfect kitchen for your home.

We don’t do trends. By working with our clients to discover their style preferences and combining that with the style of the house, we create rooms that are timeless. Remodeling your kitchen is a huge project and it should be done once….and right.

We are a family-owned design company committed to customer satisfaction. Nearly 80 percent of our business comes from repeat customers and client referrals.

We are members of the National Kitchen Bath Association, the industry’s most respected organization and BKBG, the Bath Kitchen Buying Group.

- Workers’ savings decline during an economic downturn.
- Employees also voiced concerns earlier this year that the bill could make them liable under federal retirement rules. However, last month the U.S. Department of Labor finalized regulations on state-managed retirement accounts meant to hold businesses harmless in collecting the Secure Choice contributions from workers. Several other states including Washington, Illinois and Oregon also are in the process of setting up state-managed plans.

- Public Safety day – focuses on the services available in the event of an emergency or natural disaster. The class meets Public Safety Personnel and learn how public safety agencies operate.
- Water & Environment day – the class learns about Water, Energy & Environmental Issues and Education.

Each class designs a class project as a way to culminate their experience with Leadership Redondo and to leave an imprint on the community from the knowledge and understanding they gained through the program.
